

SECRET

FUNCTIONAL KEY TO ORE ORGANIZATIONAL CHART

Policy Advisory Board

Consisting of Staff and Branch Chiefs, acts as an advisory body to the Assistant and Deputy Directors regarding fulfillment of the ORE Mission.

Global Strategic Group

Produces intelligence based upon global trends and developments with special emphasis placed upon strategic implications of multi-national situations.

Executive Staff

Acts as the administrative facility for ORE, performing personnel, office services and message center functions.

Plans and Policy Staff

Prepares and supervises the execution of plans and programs for the production of intelligence within ORE and the establishment of the national intelligence requirements; and plans and coordinates such activities with other intelligence agencies of the Government.

Basic Intelligence Staff

Determines requirements for, and supervises and coordinates the production and maintenance of, basic intelligence; edits it, and arranges for its review and publication.

Current Intelligence Staff

Coordinates the production of current intelligence with ~~the staff~~, editing, reviewing, publishing it, and arranging for its dissemination.

Estimate to
Staff Intelligence Staff

Coordinates the production of CIG staff intelligence, editing and reviewing it, obtaining concurrences or dissents from IAB agencies, and arranging for its publication and dissemination.

Presentation Staff

Arranges for oral, and provides graphic, intelligence presentations; maintains the CIG Situation Room; and advises on design, format and illustrations included in ORE reports and estimates.

SECRET

SECRET

- 2 -

Regional Branches

With respect to specifically allocated geographical areas, and exclusive of scientific and technical, civil air, oceanic shipping and United Nations intelligence, evaluates intelligence information and intelligence obtained from all sources, assesses its adequacy, accuracy and timeliness, and utilizes it in the production of CIG staff intelligence and the establishment of the national intelligence requirements.

Scientific Branch

Performs intelligence functions similar to those of the regional branches with respect to scientific and technical intelligence, and acts as the intelligence coordinating agency for the Joint Research and Development Board and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Economic Branch

Acts as expert consultant to the regional branches on specifically allocated economic subjects, performs intelligence functions similar to those of the regional branches in the fields of civil air affairs and oceanic shipping, and produces economic intelligence studies which provide special consideration in addition to the coverage accorded such subjects by the regional branches.

Political Branch

Acts as expert consultant to the regional branches on specifically allocated subjects in the field of foreign affairs, performs intelligence functions similar to those of the regional branches with respect to United Nations affairs, and produces intelligence studies in its assigned fields which provide special consideration in addition to the coverage accorded such subjects by the regional branches.

Armed Forces Branch

Acts as expert consultant to the regional branches with respect to foreign air, ground and naval forces, and military-economic geography, and performs intelligence functions similar to those of the regional branches with respect to these subjects in the production of intelligence studies which provide special consideration in addition to the coverage accorded such subjects by the regional branches.

Reference Branch

Establishes, maintains, and services an intelligence reference facility, which provides a direct reference to U. S. holdings of foreign intelligence data and a library of selected intelligence materials having particular utility to ORE.

SECRET